

BRAMERTON FILM NIGHT

Marvel at the butterfly's compound eye with its thousands of individual lenses, wings covered with microscopic solar panels and navigational systems that unerringly guide Monarch butterflies on their annual pilgrimage from Canada to Mexico, plus the 'magic' transformation from caterpillar to flight.

How did these extraordinary creatures come into being? How can they be the products of blind undirected chance? Or were they designed for a purpose by a supreme intelligence? This is what you never hear on TV!
